Recovery and destruction of refrigerants

When cooling installations are dismantled or retrofitted, the recovered refrigerants need to be handled into a registered system.

Gaslogic is specialized in recovering refrigerants and processing in accordance with legislation. All of this is to prevent harming the ozone layer any further, and re-marked regenerable refrigerants. Products that turn out not to be regenerable, will be processed into reusable material (for other applications) or non-hazardous waste.

Gaslogic has decades of experience in advising of individual gas needs and is led by the second family generation which is engaged in the selling of industrial gases. Originally the center of interest was on industrial gases and propane gas, but has shifted to refrigerants since several years now. Gaslogic can help you with all your questions.

Due to the rapidly changing market conditions by the F-gas regulation in the EU, Gaslogic takes care of reliable quality, availability and security of supply. We deliver 24/7 if needed.
